The Association for the Study of Women and Mythology (ASWM)

Sarasvati Award for Nonfiction

The Sarasvati Book Award solicits nonfiction books published in English during 2025-2026 in the field of women and mythology. Named for the Hindu goddess of learning and the creative arts, the Sarasvati Award from the Association for the Study of Women and Mythology (ASWM) honors scholarly work in the fields of goddess studies/women and mythology. The award will be presented during ASWM's next biennial conference. Book submissions must be received by ASWM Sarasvati Award committee no later than February 1, 2027.

Publisher Submission Form

A publisher may nominate one nonfiction book per award cycle. Thank you.

Name of Publisher:_____

Mailing Address of Publisher:_____

Email address of Publisher:_____

Name of Publisher's Representative: _____

Signature of Publisher's representative:_____

Date of submission:_____

==========

Title of the book: _____

Name of the author:_____

Year of Publication:_____

Number of pages: _____

Has the book received any awards or nominations in the past two years?

_____

Brief abstract of the book's original contribution to women and mythology/goddess studies (max 250 words):

Brief bio of the author (max 150 words): _____

Please contact sarasvati@womenandmyth.org with questions.

Thank you for your submission. The awards committee will communicate their decision in early February. Thank you.

Please mail copies of the book to the following addresses with copies of the completed submission form.

Dr. Mary Jo Neitz 102 E Spangler Lane Columbia, MO 65201	Dr. Sid Reger 895 Fairman Avenue Indiana PA 15701	Dr. Cristina Biaggi 9 Ludlow Lane Palisades, NY 10964